

SYMPHONY POPS MUSIC

DUETS

From Sinatra to Ella

Sonny Black calls the Bronx, New York his home and music is a part of his DNA. The very first song he can remember learning was Julie London's "Marvelous". Needless to say, he has always had a fondness for crooners from Arthur Prysock, Hank Ballard and Brook Benton to Frank, Dean & Sammy. Sonny was destined to follow in his father and great grandfather's footsteps as they were superb entertainers in their own right. Sonny feels blessed to have the opportunity to share something so wonderful and to have so much fun doing it. It's an honor for him to pay homage to the greats and to breathe new life into this wonderful music with such a talented cast. Sonny has appeared with symphonies in "The Music of the Rat Pack" and has starred in several regional productions including "Hollywood Sings", "Those Fabulous 50's", "Swing on A Star", and "Those Fab 50's and 60's".
